

Good Website:

1. <https://www.ucsf.edu/>
 - This is a good website because the images and texts are aligned in the center as well as there is a section where the viewers can look at the highlights and news about the certain topics from their hospitals, research, and etc. UCSF also has linked their social media into the specific orderly platforms as well as added events and more news for people who are curious or interested in their medical research.
2. <https://www.westportaldentist.com/>
 - In this website, I noticed that this is decently created because even though there is a lot of text that is cluttered on top of the page and that the navigation bar is shown below, this dentist company has added reviews and pictures of their patients, while also showing their levels of experience and more information about the dentist. Lastly, the contact information and the map is useful for any new in-coming patients who need a dentist.

Bad Website:

1. <https://www.westlakevision.com/>
 - In this website, I noticed that the texts in the middle of the page are either aligned to the left and the center, which is referring to inconsistency as well as the texts that are filled in as red and the reference link is an eyesore due to the mismatched background color. Also, this website had listed their phone numbers throughout the page 4 times, which usually website creators would list the contact information sometimes on top of the page or mostly below the page away from the contexts.
2. <https://sfbaypedis.com/>
 - This is a bad website because the website is disorganized with the contexts spilt up and is added above the page and a bit of context in the middle of the page as well as not having much information about the pediatrics doctors, but the good thing is that the website has the location and office hours.
